

Kathy Fediw, LEED AP ID+C, CLP, CLT

Kathy Fediw is an internationally-known interior plantscape consultant, author and speaker with over 30 years' experience. She is a LEED Accredited Professional, a Landscape Industry Certified Professional and Landscape Industry Certified Technician. Her company, Johnson Fediw Associates, provides consulting services, training workshops, online courses and other educational resources.

Kathy Fediw is the author of the book, "Green Plant Care Tips for Techs," the "Plantscape University" series of training manuals and her series of online courses. She wrote the two white papers on living walls and green roofs for Green Plants for Green Buildings and her company publishes I-Plants online magazine each month. She also wrote a safety manual for interiorscapers (Safety First) and the Hire to Train and Win human resources program for interiorscape businesses.

She is the developer of the Green Earth—Green Plants® certification program for eco-friendly horticulture businesses, products and projects; and is a frequent speaker on horticulture, management and green building topics in the US, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the Caribbean.

Kathy is also the editor and publisher of I-Plants online magazine. She will soon be releasing her newest online magazine, Office Plants, geared towards office and building managers, architects and interior designers.

Kathy is actively involved with various trade associations across the country. She is an accomplished artist and exhibits at several galleries in the greater Houston area. She and her husband live in The Woodlands, just north of Houston, Texas.

Other accomplishments:

Wrote the Landscape Industry Certified Technician exam, much of which is still in use today.

Wrote and developed the Interior Plantscape training video series sold by Professional Landcare Network.

Featured writer in trade journals and association newsletters for over 30 years.